

Historical Interpreter, Rutherford House– Part-time Wage Position

Are you looking for a fun and challenging opportunity to develop your skills, work as part of a team and meet people from all over Canada and the world?

Rutherford House Provincial Historic Site is looking for dynamic and creative individuals to fill several part-time positions with flexible hours.

This is a unique job that will combine learning about the Rutherford family, Edmonton and Alberta history, front line customer service and interpretive programming.

As a Historical Interpreter you will provide front line visitor services, as well as public interpretive programming for visitors of all ages, from children to families to seniors.

Working in a team environment, you will have the opportunity to learn about and share with our visitors a fascinating part of our province's history, and to engage them in building an appreciation of, and connection with, those stories.

You will develop a wide variety of skills including public speaking, customer service, program development, interpretation techniques, as well as historical crafts and skills.

Requirements

- You must be an excellent team player and have an interest in historical interpretation
- You must be organized with demonstrated administrative skills
- You must be creative, flexible, a quick learner, and self-motivated
- Current standard first aid certificate, and a criminal records check
- Current ProServe certification is an asset

Interested? Send a cover letter and resume to: Edward van Vliet, Facility Supervisor at Edward.vanVliet@gov.ab.ca.

For more information about the museum, you can visit Rutherford House Provincial Historic Site at www.rutherfordhousehistoricsite.org or visit us on Facebook at <https://www.facebook.com/rutherfordhousephs/>.